Introduction

Casa Chirilagua is a community of people “learning together to love their neighbors as themselves” in a Latino neighborhood in Alexandria, Virginia. They serve more than 120 families with programming for children and adults. The Arlandria/Chirilagua neighborhood is home to a sizable Latino population, mainly from Central America. Casa Chirilagua seeks to see God’s Kingdom firmly established in this community for the glory of Christ.

About Casa Chirilagua

Mission and vision

2007

Casa Chirilagua’s mission is to develop relationships with families to see the Chirilagua neighborhood transformed by Christ. They accomplish this goal through various programs that empower local youth and adults to become biblical leaders in their community.

Partnering to share the good news

2015 – present

Though Casa Chirilagua began in 2007, McLean Presbyterian Church was connected to CASA by Horace Lamb in 2015 and has been partnering with them ever since.

Making a difference

Supporting our partners

Our financial support contributes to Casa’s annual budget which provides the material resources for the youth and adults that CASA serves each day.
