Introduction

Indonesia is the world's fourth most populous country and has the world's largest Muslim population. The Reformed Partnership for Indonesia (RPI) is driven by the great need for the gospel to go forth to the millions of people who live there. RPI facilitates a relationship between western churches and the Indonesian church, and through locally-run social projects like libraries, clinics, and schools, cares for the needs of unreached communities with the ultimate goal of planting churches.

About The Reformed Partnership for Indonesia

○ Mission and vision

RPI's mission is to send Indonesian church planters into unreached areas to share the gospel. Founded by Michael Densmoor over 30 years ago, the ministry is 99% run by Indonesians.

○ Partnering to share the good news 2018 - present

McLean Presbyterian Church began partnering with RPI in 2018, and in 2023, we sent our first team to visit Indonesia, engage with RPI's ministry, understand it's work, and explore ways to strengthen our partnership.

○ Making a difference

Supporting our partner

Our annual giving pays the salary of no fewer than two full-time church planters per year.
